In travel on August 25, in the general States of the documentary movie, to Lussas (Ardèche), Audrey Azoulay announced the launch, from this year, of a network federating the numerous initiatives around the promotion and around the distribution of the documentary everywhere in FRANCE.

Audrey Azoulay, Minister of Culture and Communication, went to the general States of the documentary of Lussas, to attend the presentation of the new video on demand service by subscription Tënk, thrown by the teams of Ardèche Images.

The Secretary laid the foundations of the new building of the Information center, the centre of resources intended for the professionals and for the enthusiasts of the documentary. On the occasion of this travel, the Secretary participated in the return of the works of studios devoted to the stakes in the documentary creation. She asserted the support of the Government for the documentary of creation, look of author, space of freedom so fragile as essential.

The Secretary announced, besides, the launch, from this year, of a network federating the numerous initiatives around the promotion and around the distribution of the documentary everywhere in France, as the documentary Village to Lussas, the Film library of Toulouse, the house of the image and the video in Strasbourg, ECLA in Aquitaine, Ty Films to Mellionec, the network of the media libraries of Montpellier Mediterranean Sea Métropole and the Counter of the Doc in Rennes and including the creation of a new place of distribution within the Public Information Library ((BPI) in the Centre Pompidou.

This new network will lean on the vitality and the dynamism of the actors of the sector to value better and promote the immense wealth of the heritage and the documentary creation. Organized since 1989 by Ardèche Images and his partners of the documentary Village of Lussas, the general States establish a unique place of debates, exchanges and meetings with the public.
